The high-ly for merg-lyvania and droads into ion assets. The railway brotherhoods fear especially elimination of jobs, one of the means by which the merging companies would hope to pare expenses and shore up faltering earnings.

Between them, the Pennsy and Central have about 120,000 employees. Latest published figures, covering the first 11 months of 1961, showed the Central nearly $16 million and the Pennsy $2.7 million in the red, although the Pennsy may have finished the year in the black.

Aside from the brotherhoods, opposition to the proposed union was possible from the Justice Department, concerned with monopoly questions; from shippers; and perhaps from competing railroads.

New Mergers Hinted
John E. Kusik, Chesapeake & Ohio senior vice president, speaking in the absence of President Walter J. Tuohy, said the merger announcement was an "interesting development" and one that "could mean that our own application for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will be expedited."

Milton G. McInnes, president of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, commented: "We have repeatedly said we were for mergers in the industry to reduce its losses. It strikes us that the Central-Pennsylvania merger plan places all the railroads in the Northeast finally as saying where they want to be."

3 Big Eastern Systems
Felix S. Hales, Nickel Plate road president, said the merger plan was "probably a good idea," adding that it indicates that "there will be three major systems in the east—based on Northern, Pennsylvania and New York Central."

New Regulation On Passports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new passport regulation covering persons accused of being Communists has drawn the fire of congressmen who think the rule isn't tough enough. It is "a step backward in the control and supervision of the Communist elements," said Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa. Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, declared, "The order does not deal adequately with the problem, and legislative action is necessary."

The new regulation was announced Friday by the State Department. Under it, passports will be denied to known Communists, but a person accused of being a Red would be permitted to examine the evidence against him at an appeal hearing.

Leverich Leads 8-Hour Fight To Retain Statute; Council To Make New Study of Law

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Legislature wound up its record-long 1961 session at 1:08 a.m. today after a small band of senators beat down the proposed repeal of a state tax on oleomargarine with an eight hour filibuster.

The climax to a session that now stands adjourned until Jan. 9, was a personal triumph for 70-year-old J. Earl Leverich, R-Sparta, who led the fight to put the tax on Wisconsin's statute books 30 years ago.

Leverich opened the filibuster against repeal of the 15 cents a pound levy before the Assembly adjourned at 5:15 p.m. Two veteran Republican colleagues—Sens. Chester Dempsey of Hartland and Jess Miller of Richland Center—rallied to his aid. So did Sen. Carl Thompson, a Democrat from Stoughton.

Majority Yields
With Leverich doing more than half the talking himself, the four rural area representatives kept the filibuster going until the repealer was whipped and a weary majority accepted the proposition that the tax be studied anew by the legislative council.

Leverich had threatened to speak against the measure "until hell freezes over." "I've tried my darndest to get away from keeping you here," he said. "But some of you apparently won't listen and some of you won't believe what you hear."

"The Wisconsin dairy farmer needs the protection of this tax at least until the boys in Congress do something about giving them the right to enjoy a free flow of milk in interstate commerce," Leverich continued. Miller agreed. "This is no time to enter into a program that would seriously curtail the already meager income of the Wisconsin farmer," said the 77-year-old senator.

Administration To Back School Aid, Says Ribicoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration "will do everything possible" to help federal aid to public schools pass through Congress, declares Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff. "I urge on the members of both houses (of Congress) that they press vigorously for action on the president's total program for federal aid to education," he said in a statement. "Everything possible will be done to get this bill considered favorably by the House of Representatives."

Untrue Report
A White House official also said Kennedy stood on his State of the Union message in which he urged Congress to act on a program of aid to education. This official described as untrue a report the administration will not put its shoulder behind the general school aid bill, preferring to press for action on less controversial education measures.

Leopoldville Orders Arrest Of Gizenga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The central Congolese government today ordered the immediate arrest of Lumumbist leader Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville. After a tense session, the cabinet agreed to give Stanleyville Army Commander Gen. Victor Lundula a free hand to take all necessary measures to prevent further defiance from the one-time rebel leader.

The government agreed to seek U.N. assistance in preventing Gizenga from escaping into the bush, if this is found to be necessary.

New Military Clash
Authoritative government sources said the cabinet's decision was triggered by a new military clash in Stanleyville this morning, in which Gizenga tried to order the company of soldiers remaining loyal to him to arrest Lundula. Lundula's superior forces protected their chief, the sources said, but did not press their advantage at that time because the government had not given authorization to take the drastic step of arresting Gizenga.

Aeronautics Group U.S., Britain Probes Plane Crash Nearing Accord

Pilot and 4 Officials of Oscar Mayer Firm Killed

CHIPPewa FALLS (AP)—The Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission was conducting an investigation today into the crash of a private airplane that killed five persons Friday when it struck a television antenna tower which the commission said had been declared an air traffic hazard.

Killed in the crash were the pilot, Orin S. Slaussen, 40, of Middleton, and four officials of the Oscar Mayer & Co. meat Packing firm of Madison. The four company men were William B. Ahern, 49 and Edmund G. Blair, 33, of Madison, and John A. Weaver and Earl W. Blankenhorn, 50, of Sun Prairie.

The twin-engine, five place Cessna 310 smashed into the cloudshrouded 430-foot community TV antenna about one mile west of Chippewa Falls. The Oscar Mayer men were flying to Rice Lake on a business trip.

Services & Stations
The tower, owned by Chippewa Cable Co. provides reception from eight distant television stations to area residents who subscribe to the service.

The commission began a suit against the company in 1960, shortly after the tower was built, contending it was erected illegally and that it was an air hazard. Circuit Judge Clarence E. Rinehard of Chippewa Falls upheld the commission's contention that the tower was a hazard and Chippewa Cable Co. must rebuild it.

Garcia Claims Fraud At Philippines Polls

MANILA (AP)—Former President Carlos P. Garcia formally protested Friday night the election of President Diosdado Macapagal.

Garcia filed a petition impugning the election results in 37 provinces on the ground of "illegal and fraudulent" acts committed during the Nov. 14 balloting. Macapagal was proclaimed president of the Philippines Dec. 13 by the Philippine Congress despite earlier charges of election frauds made by Garcia.

Buried Villages
Rock, mud entomb communities; Most bodies will stay under debris

BY THOMAS J. STONE
RANRAHIRCA, Peru (AP)—Little could be done for this Andean village today but mourn the victims of a thunderous avalanche. Ranrahirca is already dead and buried. There is no one to rebuild. There is no one to rebuild for. Forty-five feet of rock and mud entomb this farming village, most of its Indian peasant residents. Its Roman Catholic church, its tile-roofed houses, school and stores.

Bodies Stay Under Debris
It is now considered futile to unearth the debris in search of the dead, although a few poke around in the morass in search of relatives and friends. Ranrahirca, once a peaceful village nestled in Huylas Valley under towering snow-capped peaks, is a tomb. Perhaps services will be held over it later. The thunderous slide of ice, rock, mud and boulders as large as four-story buildings virtually erased Ranrahirca and neighboring Yanama after dusk Wednesday. More than 8,000 persons are officially listed as residents of these two villages and their surrounding rural areas. Other villages and settlements in the Inca farming valley also were swallowed up in the mile-long sea of mud and stones.

How many died may never be known. Official estimates run from 1,300 to several thousand. Fewer than 100 bodies have been recovered. Most will not be. Another avalanche in this same Arcash Province 21 years ago killed an estimated 3,000 persons. Only 300 bodies were recovered then. Wednesday's avalanche provided its own mass grave. Virtually everyone in its path was killed in his tracks. The deadly swath was born on the slopes of 22,205-foot Mount Huascaran—Peru's highest peak—and was unloosed by summer warmth.

The sun had settled behind the towering peaks when the slide swept nine miles down a canyon and into the countryside. Most in Ranrahirca were in their homes, just finishing dinner. Minutes later, all but 50 of the nearly 500 residents were dead.

"We had just had supper when we heard a big noise," said Manuel Melgarejo, whose hut on a hill near Ranrahirca was out of the avalanche's path.

Liberal Democrats Look for Creation Of Steering Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a House Democratic liberal group say they expect to get what they wanted all along: a steering committee to "advise and consult" on party legislative plans. And they say they have reached a private understanding with Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to get the machinery moving in a week or 10 days.

Publicly, at his first news conference Friday as speaker, McCormack was only lukewarm to the idea.

Committees Hold Fate of Proposals

JFK's Programs Must Pass Two Conservative-Led Groups

BY WILLIAM ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The success or failure of much of President Kennedy's 1962 legislative program rests largely in the hands of two House committees headed by conservative Southern Democrats.

If these two groups, the rules committee and the ways and means committee, fail to act, the House itself may never get a chance to vote on the proposals Kennedy submitted to Congress Thursday in his State of the Union message.

Within the past week, the President has conferred privately and separately at the White House with both chairmen, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, head of the ways and means committee, and Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia, top man on the rules committee.

No Comments

Neither would comment on their conversations but it is a safe assumption Kennedy did not summon them merely to pass the time of day.

Smith's committee has no original jurisdiction over legislation. But it can, and often does, bottle up bills approved by other committees. It is in effect a traffic cop, controlling the flow of legislation from legislative committees to the House floor. It is composed of 10 Democrats and five Republicans but the real lineup usually is eight liberals and seven conservatives.

It was the rules committee which last year refused to let the House vote on the Senate-passed Kennedy-backed general school aid bill.

The ways and means committee has initial jurisdiction over bills dealing with taxes, Social Security and tariffs, among other things. It is composed of 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans, with the over-all majority on the conservative side.

Approval Refused

Last year, the committee declined to approve the President's request for a medical care bill under the Social Security system, a request he renewed Thursday. The most support the measure received in several committee ballots was nine favorable votes.

Mills opposed the health insurance bill last year, and Smith led the fight against the school bill. There is no reason to believe that either man has changed his position.

Kennedy's congressional leaders represent the President as being ready to exert all possible pressure to get House action on his program, regardless of what happens to bills once they reach the floor. He doesn't want them bottled up in committees.

Election "Bible"

The record of House action or inaction on the Kennedy program will be the "bible" in next November's elections in which all 435 seats in the House will be at stake.

The President, his congressional leaders claim, is ready to take an active part in the campaign and wants a record in black and white on which to base a plea for more Democrats in the House. The best records are roll call votes and there will be many of them in the House this year.

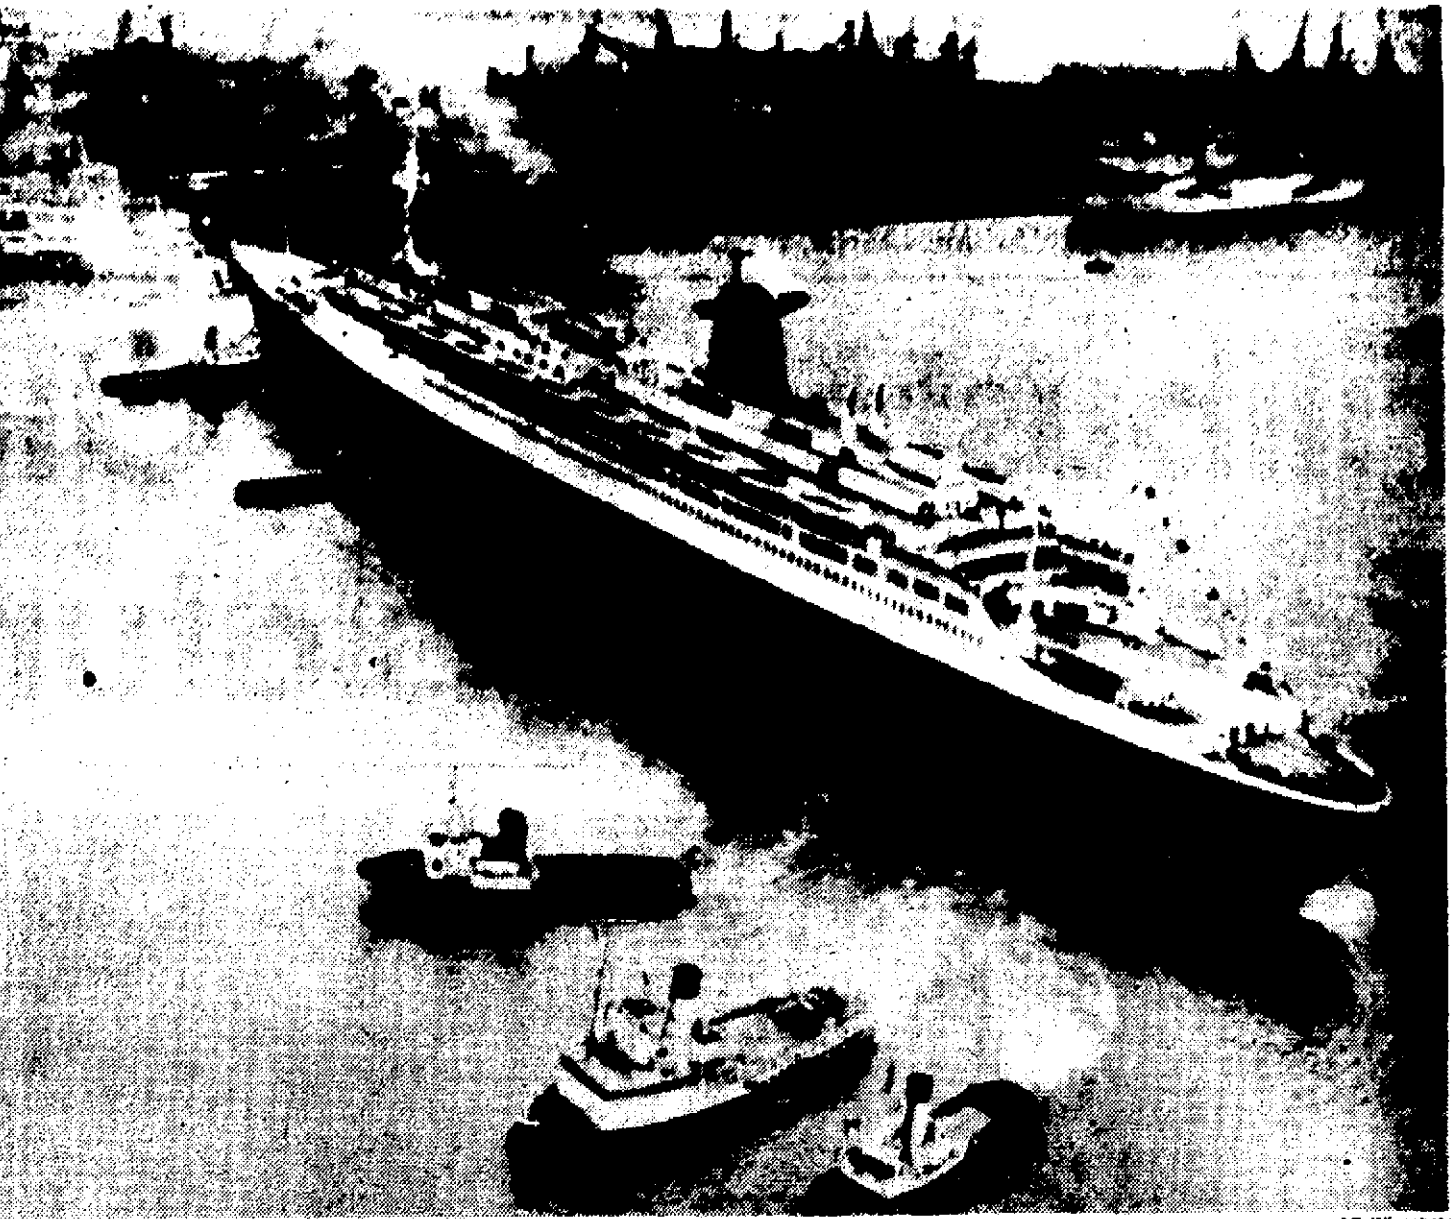

"We are going to try to get a record vote on every important measure this year," a top House leader said privately. "There will be more roll call votes than there usually are. Even when we face defeat, we are going to make them stand up and be counted."

Bids Will Be Opened Feb. 6 on Removal of Parts of Courthouse

WAUPACA — Bids for the removal of the third floor over the old portion of the county courthouse will be opened by the public property committee Feb. 6. Robert Backer, county clerk, has announced.

The committee is in the process of qualifying the bidders. Contractors have about one week to qualify for the bidding. Already qualified by the committee are V and M Electric Co., Menominee, Mich.; A. W. Jeske Construction Co., Oshkosh; Asco, Inc., a plumbing firm, Appleton, and George A. Ceman Construction Co., Berlin.

The county set up a fund of about $50,000 in the 1962 budget for the removal of the third floor and the towers and the construction of a new roof on the old portion of the court house.

came fearfully quiet and a black cloud hung over the valley."

Later Manuel returned.

"I could not believe it," he said. "Not until dawn did I see the awful destruction. There was no one injured. All in the path were killed and buried."

"Some twisted and torn bodies were churned to the surface of the mass," he went on. "They were placed on litters made of tree limbs and carried to a courtyard near the village."

Beside one body sat an Indian woman in a broad-brimmed hat, a colored blouse, and a black skirt, her face buried in her hands. She had just found her 16-year-old grandson. Fourteen victims were buried in a single grave.

Help for Survivors

Under a steady drizzle and a gloomy mist rescue teams arrived in numbers to care for the survivors.

Nations, organizations and individuals opened their hearts and purses to help rush medicines, foodstuffs and clothing into this valley 200 miles north of Lima.

But there was little to do. "Nurses and doctors are on the scene but can find no one to take care of," reported Gen. Luis Urrelo, chairman of the avalanche disaster committee.

Still to be reckoned with was nature itself. The huge icefall left many overhanging shelves, creating the danger of more avalanches, reported the Development Ministry. It declared the area an emergency zone.

folk & Western and Nickel Plate, C&O and B&O, and the Central and Pennsylvania."

Stuart T. Saunders, president of Norfolk & Western, called the merger a "highly constructive development" and said it would "contribute greatly to the solution of many problems confronting Eastern railroads."

He expressed the hope Friday's action would expedite "the disposition of our pending consolidation proceedings by the interstate commerce commission."

Formal Application

The Justice Department last fall strongly criticized a pending merger plan of the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line Railroads, one of about a dozen now under review by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Pennsylvania and the Central said they hoped to file a formal application to join in a new Pennsylvania-New York Central Transportation Co. within 30 days. Stockholders of the two roads will be asked for their approval at annual meetings scheduled for next May.

The decision binding the Central to a future with the Pennsylvania was expected to improve chances for two other Eastern railroad mergers the Central heretofore has fought, fearing isolationist and clothing into this.

only before us because some members don't have the guts or the pine to face up to the issue." In addition to eliminating the 15 cents a pound tax paid by customers, the Assembly approved measure would have repealed the $25 license fee assessed oleomargarine dealers.

Revenue Declines

The taxes and fees enriched Wisconsin's treasury by more than $1 million in 1949. The take has dropped off since to less than $400,000.

Supporters of the tax contend proper enforcement of laws barring personal imports of untaxed oleomargarine from neighboring states would restore revenue receipts to their previous levels.

With final attention focused on the oleomargarine issue, expected lengthy debate on the Republican sponsored adjournment resolution did not develop.

A provision in the adjournment proposal subjects lawmakers to recall any time prior to Jan. 9 should a majority of both houses so decide. The Democratic minority claimed such recall power belonged only to the governor.

New Assembly District

In last minute action, the Assembly advanced to the governor a bill to make newly formed Menominee County and Shawano County a single Assembly district. Menominee also would be added to the 29th Senate District now consisting of Marathon and Shawano counties.

Freedom of the Press

The title of this editorial is a term familiar to everyone but on the meaning of which very few people will agree. It is not unusual therefore to read that such persons as Bernard Kilgore, president of the Wall Street Journal, and Robert W. Sarnoff of the National Broadcasting Company, are in disagreement not only as to the meaning of the term but also as to the means that should be employed to preserve this freedom and to extend it.

Kilgore started the argument when, in a public address, he defined freedom of the press as the right to own a printing press and to report and comment on public affairs in print. He pointed out that freedom of the press, like other basic freedoms, is an individual right. He said it may not be shared by a partnership or group, it is not a "people's" right and further, that while democratic government depends on freedom of the press to function effectively, the press is not a part of government.

He noted that the press once was a licensed industry because it was necessary in England to get a government permit to own a printing press. This licensing practice, he said, was brought to America from England and the right to own a printing press without license was fought out in England and America before the press was free. Only after licensing was eliminated was it possible for the other basic freedom of the press, the right to report and comment favorably on public affairs won, in America, Kilgore declared.

It was his opinion also that "we are going to get the issue of freedom of the press obscured dangerously if we try to stretch it to fit the radio and television industries that apparently must operate for some time in the future under government licenses." He said that if we are to argue that freedom of the press can exist in a medium licensed by the government we have no argument against a licensed press. That, he said, would put us back to the very beginning of the fight for freedom.

That is the conclusion which brought Sarnoff into the argument. He regarded the Kilgore viewpoint as shortsighted and one which, rather than strengthening freedom of the press, would weaken "freedom of expression where it currently needs most to be bolstered."

Sarnoff acknowledges the fact that broadcasters operate under government license but he said it is "for technical reasons and not to limit their freedom" and he insists that licensing does place certain limitations on broadcasts but

Basic Human Right

A report for the consideration of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights has been drawn by Hernan Santa Cruz who was a member of the Commission back in 1948 when the Declaration of Human Rights was written. Whatever Dr. Santa Cruz' opinion at that time of what is a somewhat visionary and vague document, he has some sound ideas now about matters of human oppression.

It is in the field of political rights that the least progress has been made and the situation in many nations is "far from satisfactory." Over the last two years a study has been conducted of political rights in about a hundred nations. The report, now before a subcommittee of representatives of 14 members, is not encouraging.

There are other human rights problems, too, but Dr. Santa Cruz suggests that the subcommittee now concentrate

There'll Always Be an England

The British are a persistent people undeterred by ridicule, failure or the opinions of others. The fact that planes today fly faster than sound and space ships have penetrated outer space has not slowed in any way their pursuit of a way in which man can fly by himself.

Money for the experiments being conducted by three teams of Britons comes not from an off-beat source but from the Royal Aeronautical Society. The teams are led by aeronautical engineers and teachers. And there also is a prize of $14,000 which was offered two years ago by a hopeful manufacturer of plastics and aircraft parts and which no one has collected.

The requirements for the prize are strict. Only man's muscles can be used for power both for flying and getting off the ground. The contestant must fly a figure eight course, at least ten feet above the ground and between points half a that those limitations need not and should not apply to the press. He pointed out in the case of the press "freedom is limited by laws and judicial decisions involving such matters as libel, obscenity, invasion of privacy, contempt of court, sedition and advertising practices." And he added that while the press is not licensed, "much of it is beholden to the government for postal subsidies without which many publications could not exist."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Sarnoff's reference to postal subsidies is beside the point. The term "freedom of the press" refers to the right of any individual to express his views in writing or printing and to distribute them. As Mr. Kilgore pointed out, many of the basic rights of the press were won by the editors of little weeklies which were "hardly any bigger than a sheet of letter paper." That is true and so it follows that it is not necessary for one engaged in expressing his ideas in writing to own a press nor is it necessary for him to have a postal subsidy. A handbill distributed on the street is actually considered by courts to be a part of the press and its author is considered by American courts to have the same rights as the editors of newspapers or magazines.

It must be quite apparent that Sarnoff's notion of extending freedom of expression under the guarantees of a free press to radio and television certainly is in the interest of progress. The government license which now hampers expression in radio and TV is authorized for purely technical reasons and is necessary only because there are not enough channels for everyone and their use must be allotted. But such licensing should not be permitted to extend to regulation of the right to "report and comment on public affairs." This right now is seriously restricted by the rule which requires broadcasters to give equal time to all political parties if it comments favorably on one. Some day the broadcasting industry will find a way to get this matter before a court. If properly presented, there may be a ruling that this requirement is contrary to the constitutional provision against limiting freedom of the press and therefore cannot be maintained as a necessary technical regulation.

It should be noted that the government does not guarantee the success of publishing businesses and has no duty to assist by such means as granting favorable postal rates. It is merely required to refrain from hampering the press by licensing presses or by enforcing unreasonable restriction such as the equal time rule imposed upon broadcasting.

on the implementation of political rights. "The point has now been reached at which the subcommittee must assume responsibility for outlining a program of action which, if implemented by governments, eventually would extirpate any vestiges of discrimination in the matter of political rights," he says.

This is a big "if." The repression of political rights, of voting, of equal rights under the law, of free elections and a secret ballot, is the only way dictatoratorial regime stays in power and the Communists, at least, are not about to give it up. Nevertheless the aim suggested by Dr. Santa Cruz is a healthy one and so too is his warning about nations which make a big point about democratic processes and then quietly steal them.

Political rights are basic to real freedom and responsibility. A lot of the members of the United Nations don't seem to know it.

mile apart. The craft used must be heavier than air, and there must be no more than a 12-mile an hour wind.

Two teams have flown their crafts, which have fixed wings and propellers powered by pedals. A university professor has estimated that an athletic man could pedal fast and hard enough to take his craft over the course. Maybe this is an answer to the physical fitness lag.

There also is some history of near success. A German in 1935 pedaled his plane about 250 yards. An Italian team kept one aloft for nearly a thousand yards but both attempts were sent into the air by catapult which isn't cricket. An Englishman with 10-foot wings strapped to his arms managed to get into the air but he ran down a hill first. And then there was Icarus, maybe 3,000 years ago, in mythical history, who flew too near the sun which melted the wax which held his wings and he was destroyed.

Ah, Vanishing Breed Is 'Unattached' Male

One descriptive phrase one doesn't hear anymore is the "unattached male."

He may not have ties that bind with any female, and still not qualify for that title. Because if the auto finance company hasn't got him, the Internal Revenue Service has.

BY BERTRAM D. WOLFE

John Reed was as American as apple pie and store cheese. Yet he was one of the founders of the Communist International, and his ashes lie under the Kremlin wall. From a mansion in Portland, Ore., through respectable Harvard College to the heart of Moscow — such was the trajectory of his life.

The Harvard of Reed's day was in a ferment of intellectual radicalism. Reed, who was forever obsessed with the sense of being an outsider, went to some meetings of the Socialist Club, but would not join. He shopped around too at the Single Tax and Anarchist Clubs, and the Harvard Men's League for Woman's Suffrage.

The best eye-witness reporting to come out of the Russian Revolution was done by a visionary American who was soon to be disillusioned by the upheaval he helped sponsor. But despite his switch in thinking, the ashes of John Reed still lie in the Kremlin. The author of this account, a personal friend of Reed's, tells the story.

At Harvard, the "commoners" lived in dormitories in Harvard Yard, the "aristocrats" on Mt. Auburn Street. Tempted by the symbols of status, Jack Reed had taken a room on the Street.

But despite a modicum of acceptance from the "insiders" in his senior year, the aristocrats did not altogether include him. When he did get invited to the Back Bay drawing rooms, a perverse streak made him affront some great personage or denounce some cherished institution.

Being a Harvard man remained important in later years. This concern with the college was a part of Reed's lifelong boyishness, a quality which misled many who have written about him to regard him as a "play-boy."

Exposed to Steffen

The one remembered teacher of his years at Harvard was Charles Townsend Copeland, who led young Reed to the tutelage of Lincoln Steffens, the top-flight radical journalist with a flair for the offbeat: a liking for the crooks and grafters, and a dislike for the men of his own class.

Steffens got Reed a job on the American Magazine, and introduced him to the life, art, men, women and isms of Greenwich Village. For Reed the Village was impassioned talk, endless inspiration, unflagging excitement, physical and spiritual adventure.

Reed tried to write things that would sell, but as a solace for rejection slips found the Village had an open-hearted, if empty-treasured, magazine: the Masses. Before long he was managing editor.

In one issue he wrote, "We will be bound by no creed or theory of social reform, but will express them all, providing they be radical."

Sharpens His Pen

In November, 1913, Reed went to Mexico to report for the weekly Metropolitan Magazine and the New York City newspaper, The World. To him the Mexican Revolution was a paccant, a succession of adventures, a delight to the eye, a chance to discover that he was not afraid of bullets. Neither Reed nor Steffens, who was with him, had any real notion of the Mexican maze. But Reed's mingling of personal adventure with camera-eye closeups lighted by a poet's vision made superb reporting. When he returned to New York, he found that he had a reputation as a war correspondent.

When war broke out in Europe in 1914, he was asked to cover it

John Reed, Harvard educated American writer and follower of revolutions, journeyed to Russia to take part in the turbulent events of the Bolshevik overthrow of the czar and other leaders set in motion by riots of July, 1917, in Petrograd, one of which is shown above.

for the Metropolitan. First Italy — nothing worth reporting. Like most Village radicals, he was inclined to sympathize with Germany as the "underdog". He spent a night in the German front lines and, with a rifle borrowed from a German soldier, fired two shots at daybreak in the general direction of the French.

Barred by France

This escapade, reported by a fellow correspondent, was to cause trouble for him later in Czarist Russia, he held against him in Washington, cause him to be barred from France. He was transferred to the eastern front, with Boardman Robinson as his artist-illustrator. The results of their work appeared in 1916 as The War in Eastern Europe.

His tour of duty as a European war correspondent was a disappointment to editors, friends, and to Jack himself. The eastern front proved scarcely more rewarding. Having worked his way up through the Balkans, without permission from the Russian authorities and pursued by the story of his two shots at France, he landed in a Russian jail. It was 16 days before American officials could arrange his ignominious departure.

But his brief stay in Russia had made him a Russophile: "Russian ideals are the most exhilarating. Russian thought the freest. Russian art the most exuberant. Russian food and drink are to me the best, and Russians themselves are, perhaps, the most interesting human beings that exist."

Sees Czarist Russia

It was Czarist Russia of late 1915 that he was celebrating. In 1917 Jack sought an assignment in Russia, where the Czar had fallen and a revolution begun. He sailed with an exalted preconception of what he was going to see. His own civilization was in crisis; his country had gone to war. He was ready to support the party that wanted to take Russia out of the war, and, he hoped, put an end to war.

Of Lenin's authoritarian structure and organization creed he knew nothing; so much the freer was his fancy to endow the conflict he was to witness with the form and substance of his own dream.

His Russian was even sketchier than his Spanish, but no matter. Since all Russia was yearning to unburden its soul, any number of officers, intellectuals, and political leaders could talk to him in English, French or German. In the back of every meeting into which Jack shouldered his way, there was always someone to answer his perpetual, breathless "Say, what's going on here?"

Addresses Workers

In this "class war pure and simple" he strove to be a participant. Twice he addressed crowds in the Cirque Moderne, bringing fraternal greetings (from whom?), being presented as a spokesman for the American Socialist party (which he was not), and as a man under indictment in far-off America (which, as an editor of the anti-war Masses, he was). He addressed Bolshevik factory meetings, careened around the city on one of their trucks hurling out leaflets he could not read, joined the looting of the Winter Palace, carrying off some notes of a doomed minister and a jewel-handled sword concealed under his coat.

With his poet's blood and his rebel heart he decided what to believe. Then with the artist's gift for selecting, heightening and unifying, he assimilated all the chaotic impressions into a picture more impressive and more beautiful than life itself.

Yet there is nothing of the mean, deliberate lie about John Reed's Ten Days That Shook The World. A good reporter, always in the thick of things, he possessed an honest sense of vivid detail that makes one page refute another. As a repository of facts for the historian, his book is bursting with precious material: interviews, speeches, resolutions, press clippings. One of his habits was to tear down a specimen of every poster or proclamation for future translation. The book is full of quotations from these documents, and illustrated by photos of many of them — a priceless opportunity for the historian.

Whether because of or despite the dream that possessed him, as literature Reed's book is the finest piece of eye-witness reporting the Revolution produced. It is his true monument, more enduring than the ashes and the name carved on the Kremlin wall.

After the Ten Days, the rest of his life is anticlimax. He tried to become a Communist politician, but was not of his element. Back in the United States, he wrote propaganda articles on America, the world situation, Communism. They are dull, foolish, barely readable.

Forges Papers

Then came the chance to return to adventure. The occasion was petty: to present the case of one of the splinters of the new Communist movement against the other, before the Communist International.

It was a quest perilous to get to the Red Mecca. Fearful of the contagion of revolution, the West had set up a cordon sanitaire around Russia. Denied a passport, Jack sailed with forged identification papers as Jim Gormley, stoker on a Scandinavian vessel, in September 1919. He jumped ship in Norway, stowed away in a greasy pile of rags on a ship to Finland, and was smuggled across the Finnish border into Russia.

It was not the Russia of his dreams. He was hurt by the spectacle of hunger, apathy, above all by the new Soviet bureaucracy lavishing care on itself in the midst of universal misery. As in 1917, he insisted on living like the underprivileged.

He made two attempts to return to America. On the second he was caught in Finland, and after two more months of hunger and filth in a Finnish jail, was reported back to Moscow, suffering from scurvy and malnutrition.

Now he decided to wait for the Second Congress of the Communist International. Lenin had set it as the task of all revolutionaries to return to or infiltrate the old trade unions, since they had not been smashed earlier.

His Rebellion Dies

Jack disagreed, and he prepared for a fight. On behalf of 30 delegates from English-speaking countries, he introduced two motions: to put the trade-union question at the top of the order of business, and to add English to the already adopted official languages of the Congress. The motions were ruled out.

Reed would not give in. A rebel, not a robot, he was not made to be a cog in a ruthless machine. "Nobody in Russia seems to understand industrial unionism..." At the next Congress these theses must be altered.

But for him there was to be no "next Congress".

Despite broken health and spirit, he was made to go to a congress of the "Toiling Peoples of the East" in Baku. But the luxury of a special train running through a land of famine sickened him.

Back in Moscow, Jack took to his bed with typhus. How much the virus, how much the ravaged body, how much the broken spirit prevailed, we can only guess.

When he died, Reed was given a state funeral, because he was the author of what Lenin rightly esteemed to be the best book on his seizure of power.

But with his death, all rebellion ended.

State School for Blind in 13th Year

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 11, 1861.

We have just received the annual circular of the Wisconsin Institute for the Education of the Blind at Janesville. The circular is as follows:

The thirteenth session of this institution began on the second of September last, and is going on prosperously, more pupils being in attendance than at any previous time.

The institution is supported entirely by the State, which aims to furnish here for the blind of suitable age, the education provided for in the common school for its more favored children, and to give them besides, by a foreknowledge of some mechanical art or by skill in music, the means of future self-maintenance and usefulness.

The recent completion of the main building affords room for a larger number of pupils; and there are, doubtless, in the state, many blind youth entitled to its advantages, who are allowing the proper time for instruction to pass by unimproved.

A golf club in Blair, Nebraska, reports the Washington Daily News, for years rented to farmers 14 acres of ground not needed for its fairways.

Last year club officials enlarged the course and took the 14 acres back.

Soon thereafter, the golf club received a government check for taking out of production land previously planted in corn.

Can't Really Ring Out the Old Year

From The Washington Star

Now we are in the new year, but we cannot really ring out the old, as the poet urges. We cannot do so because the legacy bequeathed by 1961 still leaves us with problems and challenges, hopes and fears that have been with us not only during the last 12 months, but ever since the end of the Second World War.

Symphony to Feature Two Works Never Heard by Composers

Trumpet Virtuoso Raphael Mendez
Guest Artist for Sunday Concert

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Bureau

GREEN BAY — The audience that hears the Green Bay Symphony Orchestra play Heikki Suolahti's "Sinfonia Piccola" at 8:15 p.m. Sunday night at West High Auditorium will have one advantage over its composer. The young Finn who might have taken a place beside the late Jan Sibelius had he lived, never heard it.

Suolahti, who died in 1936 at the age of 17, never heard any of his music performed publicly. The first performance of any of his compositions was given at his funeral by members of the Helsinki Symphony.

Heikki was the son of a prominent physician and a former professional violinist. Before he began taking piano lessons at the age of eight he had already composed a few small, simple pieces: at 10 he entered the Helsinki Conservatory, where he was still a student at the time of his early death.

"Sinfonia Piccola (Little Symphony)" was premiered by the Helsinki Symphony in 1938 under the baton of Tauno Hannikainen, who conducted the Duluth Symphony during World War II. It was introduced at the Peninsula Music Festival a few seasons ago by Dr. Thor Johnson, who has given it many performances throughout the United States since.

The Finnish youth's work, together with Aaron Copland's "An Outdoor Overture," will lay the groundwork Sunday night for the appearance as a guest artist of the Mexican trumpet virtuoso Raphael Mendez. The latter will play the second and third movements of Haydn's Trumpet Concerto in E-Flat Major with the Symphony and will later present two trumpet solos in original arrangements.

Other works on Sunday night's program will be the well known "Night On Bald Mountain" by Modest Moussorgsky and the suite from Jacques Offenbach's comic opera "La Vie Parisienne." Mendez' solo offerings will be his own arrangements of "Macarena" and "Tico, Tico."

Jacques Offenbach, the master of French comic opera who enjoyed spectacular popularity in Paris in the 19th Century, wasn't French at all and his name wasn't Offenbach. His real name was Eberst and he was born in Germany, but he spent nearly all of his artistic life in Paris.

"La Vie Parisienne" was one of his early successes, premiered in Paris in 1866. His operettas are only occasionally revived today, but the cheerful, melodic overtures are favorite concert pieces all over the world, as is the famed "Barcarolle" from "The Tales of Hoffmann."

The later is his masterpiece and his only serious opera. Like young Suolahti, however, Offenbach never heard it performed. He died, in 1880, only four months before his successful premiere in February of 1881.

For that matter, Moussorgsky never heard "Night On Bald Mountain" publicly performed, either. Like so many other projects of his tragically wasted life, the fantasy was never completed until his friend Rimsky-Korsakov orchestrated and published it after the composer's death as a hopeless alcoholic.

Originally composed in 1867 after several years of playing around with the idea "Night On Bald Mountain" ranks with Moussorgsky's opera "Boris Godunov" and his suite "Pictures at an Exhibition" as his best known and most significant creations. It is based on a story by Gogol titled "St. John's Eve," which is, in turn, a fictionalized version of a Russian tradition about Mount Triglav, near Kiev.

Dave Chasen quickly whipped up a batch of chili and dispatched it to Rome at a shipping cost of $100. In return he received an affectionate letter from Cleopatra and consort, Eddie Fisher: "We cannot tell you what your chili has done for us all the way over here. Like that Jewish song, 'Sure and a Little Bit of Heaven Fell Out of the Sky One Day.'"

Like Jane Wyman, Kirk Douglas and Walter O'Malley, Liz Taylor is fanatical about Dave Chasen's chili. Like J. Edgar Hoover, Harlow Curtice, Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Steelworkers' boss David McDonald, Liz is also a

He's a little guy with curly hair and flat stomach ("I watch the cholesterol and I'm never reluctant to push away from the table"). His manner is always affable, and he claims never to have had fights in the house, though Humphrey Bogart and third wife Mayo Methot used to do some pretty good sparring.

Dave started in 1936 as the Southern Pit Barbecue, and the hut of the place was his chili, then as now. "I always enjoyed cooking—used to do it on the road for Joe Cook," Dave remarked. He was the late comic's vaudeville stooge, and a pal to many of the Broadway greats. Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker, staked him to the start in the restaurant business.

Fourposter Makes Bow On Live TV

BY TV SCOUT

4-5 (Channel 4-5) — All-Star Golf (pre-empted last week by the East-West football game) picks up again this week with Tommy Bolt trying for his sixth straight victory. His opponent, in this match from the Pocono, Pa., Manor Inn course, is Art Wall Jr.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Eventually, the whole diabolical plot becomes clear on Perry Mason this week, but it's a bit thick for the first 20 minutes. We meet a shipping family with two branches—the haves and the have nots. So when the chief have is killed, the boy friend of the have nots' heiress is accused. This unfortunate is played by Jeremy Slate.

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — The masculine stirrings in the juvenile soul of Beaver are again the subject for Leave It to Beaver. This time, they cause him to think he likes Penny, the girl who has been his chief thorn-in-the-side since kindergarten. Now she's moving away and the thought of missing her confuses him.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Golden Showcase dares to do a live drama tonight, taking Jan de Hartog's famous "The Fourposter" as its play. This has been done on TV before, so producer Jacqueline Babbin decided to give it a different flavor. She has accomplished this by adding a narrator (Tom Ewell) to the two-person cast (Jackie Cooper and Tammy Grimes). The narrator also serves a practical purpose; it gives the actors and the stagehands a bit more time for their costume and prop changes. Cooper and Miss Grimes play a couple in a play which spans about 25 years of their marriage.

8-10 (Channel 4-5) — A 1951 romantic comedy, "People Will Talk," is this week's film on Saturday Night at the Movies. It stars Cary Grant and Jeanne Crain, with Hume Cronyn, Walter Slezak and Finlay Currie in support. While it tells a basically serious story — about a doctor accused of malpractice — it is done with tongue in cheek.

8:30-9 (Channel 2) — Have Gun, Will Travel has one of its best episodes in months this week. Richard Boone feels that the acting performance of William Schallert (Mr. Pomfritt on Dobie Gillis) is "the best thing he's done"; he plays an alcoholic ex-Bostonian who winds up as the defense counsel in an odd trial. Paladin pursues a brutal killer to a town which is a refuge for outlaws. The town fathers won't let the killer go, so Paladin agrees to prosecute him before a jury of townspeople.

9-10 (Channel 2) — Gunsmoke is a cut above its usual level with tonight's episode, basically a drama of a lovesick girl. Sherry Jackson plays Lacey, who would do anything — even kill her father — to be near her man, played nastily by Jeremy Slate.

Totem Pole Carver Looking for More Modern Employment
VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—One of British Columbia's top totem pole carvers is ready to throw in the chisel. "I would like to get back to a 20th Century job for a while," says Bill Reid, 42. "I feel I'm becoming a living monument and it's not my idea of a permanent occupation."

Reid, whose mother was a Haida Indian and father a white man, has spent the past two and a half years carving huge cedar logs into totem poles and other symbolic figures of the Haida Tribe. He got the assignment from the University of British Columbia.

Buffalo Streets
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Twenty-mantic comedy, "People Will Talk," is this week's film on Saturday Night at the Movies. It stars Cary Grant and Jeanne Crain, with Hume Cronyn, Walter Slezak and Finlay Currie in support. While it tells a basically serious story — about a doctor accused of malpractice — it is done with tongue in cheek.

It's Tune-Up Time for All Vikings which are over two years old, according to Gene Kloes of Gen-Ral Enterprises, 203 N. State street, the only Viking Service station in the Fox Valley.

Gen - Ral Enterprises, 203 N. State street, is the exclusive dealer for the Viking sewing machine. Gene Kloes said today that this would be a good time to have your sewing machine checked over and reconditioned — for the heavy sewing that is coming up.

Gene Kloes states that the Viking sewing machine is more than a sewing machine — it is a help and a joy to have around the house. Until now, a woman has had a free arm.

Swedish high - grade ore, Swedish technical skill and experience, Swedish craftsmanship and modern Swedish design stamp the Viking sewing machine at Gen-Ral Enterprises, 203 N. State street, or call RE 3-1785, for an appointment.

All the Comforts of Home, including safety, comfort and a little bit of pampering, will be available for your dog when you board him at Schultz Boarding Kennels, located at Gillingham Corners, Highways 45 and 114, three miles west of Neenah.

We've got the time. And got the place. To board your dog. Just in case. Vacation tour. Convention time. Wedding bells. Or warmer climate. Lure you away. Just for a day. Or a week.

Or a year. He'll enjoy it here.

These are the thoughts of Mrs. Mike Schultz, owner and manager of Schultz Boarding Kennels. Here that he is being kept warm, are outstanding facilities, including automatic perimeter heat and a new inter-com to the kennels. So the Schultz managers can always hear what is going on in the dog kennels.

This is a nice vacation spot for your dog while you, too, are enjoying a vacation. You will know of Schultz Boarding Kennels. Here that he is being kept warm, are outstanding facilities, including automatic perimeter heat and a new inter-com to the kennels. So the Schultz managers can always hear what is going on in the dog kennels.

For more information about a care-free vacation for you and your pet, call Schultz Boarding Kennels, PA 2-9696.

Masonry or Building Block for Fallout Shelters is available at Schulz Concrete Products, Inc. Schulz is located on route 2, or W. Prospect avenue, and the telephone number is RE 4-7733.

Schulz Concrete Products Inc., located at route 2, W. Prospect avenue, have the latest modern equipment and produce 100,000 a month throughout the year. This means the firm can have a continuous inventory of approximately 500,000 units, all properly steam-cured in the modern kilns to give properly aged block.

Quality and service to many of Schulz, manufacturers of concrete and the new Waylite masonry units for all types of construction. Schulz provides for homeowners, as well as many civic and commercial buildings in Appleton.

Service to builders means a fleet of trucks, including four-wheel drive units, assuring good and fast delivery. Delivery is made throughout the state. Quick, easier, and more efficient unloading of concrete blocks is now possible because a new truck-mounted boom means that the process will be done faster, safer and more economical.

The boom-up unloader saves time, labor, space and money. Schulz says. Many unloaders are hampered by the piles of dirt around the basement. This new unloader is able to unload block that have been carried on top of the load, it is able to miss any obstacles around the basement and can raise the boom to clear cubes and obstacles at any angle the truck may be setting.

Quality? Schulz says the concrete and new Waylite masonry units meet the exacting specifications of architects and home builders for weight, texture and physical properties, as well as all specifications of local, state and U. S. Corps or Engineers. The firm produces its own materials to enable exact blending.

Novel Hi-Fi Advertising Promotes Mrs. Butterworth's Syrup

In the January 23rd issue of The Appleton Post-Crescent, readers will see a new dimension in advertising - a full page "Hi-Fi" advertisement in four colors, featuring "Mrs. Butterworth's - the original buttered syrup."

"Hi-Fi pre-print" as it is known in trade circles, is a new development in advertising. Rolls of paper are printed in quality magazine printing plants employing off-set printing which exceeds the quality of normal newspaper color processes.

Mrs. Butterworth's is the newest developments in syrups — a blend of pure creamy butter and maple - flavor that never needs refrigeration. Hi-Fi special rolls are supplied to newspapers carrying advertising schedules and they are fed into ordinary rotary presses identically as is other newsprint. The newspaper runs its own news on the reverse side of the advertisement. The Hi-Fi insert gets its name from the high-fidelity color.

Continental Baking Company Introduces New Baking Process

The Continental Baking Company has introduced a new baking process that gives bread that wonderful cake texture. The bread is being introduced this week to shoppers in the Milwaukee district and is currently being advertised in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

The company says that here is a bread improvement you can actually see. New Wonder "Soft Whirled" bread has no holes. There is a difference in texture, in softness and in flavor.

The secret is in the way it's made, the firm states. By a special process, Wonder's ingredients are whirled and spun and blended into silky smoothness, the way a master baker makes cake. The result is a bread with smooth texture—no holes.

Wonder's new "Soft Whirled" bread was first test marketed in Omaha. Later it was introduced on the West Coast in the metropolitan Los Angeles area. Wonder's "Soft Whirled" is being advertised in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Appleton's Terrors, victory within their grasp near the end of regulation play, lost a wild, 67-64 overtime decision to Sheboygan South here Friday night. The Terrors had fought from behind throughout the game. They finally took the lead, at 41-40, with 3:49 remaining in the third period. In the fourth quarter, the Terrors again had to fight back from a 59-57 deficit.

Mike Lee converted two free throws and Jack Wendt hit on a jump shot to give the Terrors a 61-59 advantage only to have Sheboygan South's game hero, Frank Timkus, sink two tying free throws with 1:22 to play.

Just Misses
Coach Dick Emanuel directed his boys to go for the last shot with the score tied but Wendt's ump shot attempt came just a second late and a fraction of an inch away.

The extra period went to South all the way with Gary Kampman opening the scoring with 2:17 to play. Dennis Babb converted a rec throw, to make the score 3-42, with 1:35 remaining but John Cinealis put in a pair of charity tosses and Rimkus a layup to clinch the game.

Even at that, the Terrors couldn't say "die" as sophomore Gary Hietpas put in two free throws, with :06 remaining, to narrow the South lead to 67-64. A violation gave Appleton the all with five seconds to play, at the Terrors had lost their first Fox River Valley conference game of the season.

The South hero, Rimkus, led in scoring with 17 points. His basket, with :37 to play in the overtime, virtually clinched the outcome and his two free throws, with 1:22 to play in the regulation game, enabled the Redmen to gain the victory in overtime. Rimkus was supported by Rick Kroos, who was the last starter to be named by South coach Carl Huebner. Huebner pondered starting his son, John, instead of Kroos. Kroos' sharpshooting in the first half kept the Redmen in the lead through most of the first half.

Leads Twice
Appleton led only twice in the first two periods. Mike Lee's pair of free throws, just after the time began, gave Appleton a 4-2 advantage. Wendt gave the Terrors a 6-4 lead moments later. Some hot jump shooting, mostly by Brian Wirth, enabled South to take the lead. Appleton tied the score on several occasions at South ended the first quarter with a flurry, building up a 20-14 lead.

Baskets by Mike Woehler and Mike Lee and a free throw by Wendt cut the South lead to 20-14 but Cinealis pushed up a re-

Fox Lutheran Triumphs Over Concordia '5'

Schweppe Scores 16 Points in 41 to 38 Win

Fox Valley Lutheran High School avenged a couple of last season's basketball losses and scored its fifth win in eight outings here Friday night by scoring a 41-38 victory over Concordia of Milwaukee.

The Foxes had to battle from behind and solve the visitors full court press in order to take the victory. Concordia took the lead at the outset and were ahead by a 13-5 margin before the hosts got going.

Struggling against the full court press and the platonizing of the Milwaukee team, FVL used the dribbling of Verlyn Dobberstein and the rebounding of John Kosman to fight back. By halftime, the Foxes had taken a narrow 22-21 lead.

Concordia came back strong in the third period and held a 28-26 lead before seeing it compressed to 32-31 at the end of three periods.

FOND DU LAC — John Hansen scored two baskets in an overtime session here Friday night in a starring role for Green Bay West as the Wildcats nipped Fond du Lac, 71-70, to gain a share of second place in the Fox River Valley Conference.

The lead was exchanged 14 times during the game and on seven occasions the score was tied. Fond du Lac led 18-15, at the end of the first period and the Cardinals, knocked out St. Louis. victory leaves both teams with 2-4 marks in league activity.

Menasha simply outscrapped the Bulldogs in the second half, picking off 26 rebounds to New London's eight after having an 18-15 rebound edge in the first half.

The visitors managed only five field goals in the last two periods and finished the game with a .326 percentage on 16 for 49. The Bluejays did a little better, hooping 23 of 59 shots for 38.1 percent.

See-Saw Game

The contest see-sawed back and forth for three quarters before Menasha took a commanding lead in the final period.

After the score was knotted at 7-7 midway through the first quarter, the Bluejays spurred ahead to lead 15-10 at the end of the period.

New London came back to tie the count at 17-17 on a basket by Don Hanold. Three baskets by Dave Emerich, who led all scorers with 18 points, and one by Mike Herres, pushed the Bulldogs ahead at halftime, 29-23.

Herres dumped in another basket to start the third quarter and gave New London an 8-point margin before Menasha started on the comeback trail.

Dean Ristau scored from out in front of the net, and Tom Steinmetz dropped in a 20-footer from the side. A few seconds later Steinmetz added a free throw to cut New London's lead to 31-28.

Baskets by Mark Pawlowski and Ristau completed the comeback and gave Menasha a point lead which it never relinquished. The Bluejays upped the margin to 43-36 before Emerich and Hanold cut it to three points at the three-quarter mark, but Menasha was never in danger in the final period.

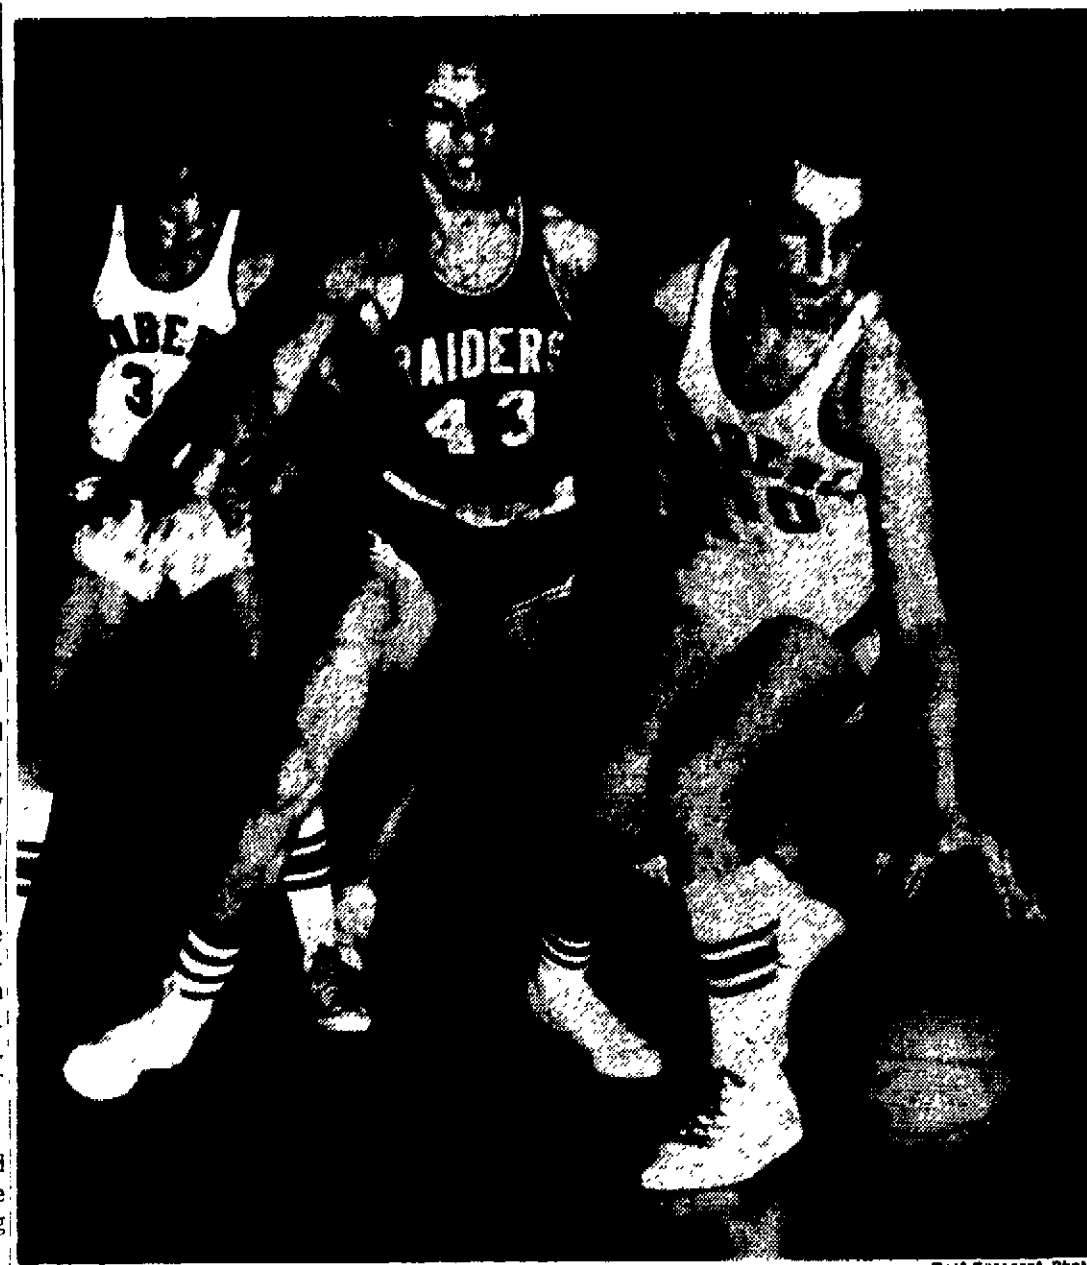

Neither team was especially hot from the free throw line, New London hitting only 16 of 28 charity tosses while Menasha made nine of 15.

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly High School Papermakers vaulted back into the Mid-Eastern Conference title picture Friday night with a convincing 75-54 triumph over Two Rivers.

The Purple Raiders, unbeaten in five previous conference starts, were no match for the ball-hawking, fast-moving Papermakers.

With the win, Kimberly now has a 5-1 M-E record. It was the fifth straight win for Coach Dave Genzmer's team after dropping the league opener to Neenah. The Papermakers sealed the victory in two stages Friday night. First they rolled away to a commanding lead and then saw Two Rivers come back to close the gap to three points. Then Kimberly roared away again and this time the Raiders were hopelessly left in the dust as they fell as far as 31 points behind late in the third period.

Divide Scoring
Kimberly's five starters divided the scoring well. Wes VanderVelden led the way with 21, his individual high for the season. Rick Polman followed with 17, Al Hietpas added 14 and Al Schmidt had 11. The fifth man, Tom Roovers, contributed nine.

Phil Rehner, a reserve who came in late in the game, was the high scorer for the Raiders with 12 markers. Coach Warren Otto of Two Rivers had a difficult time all night as he continually shifted players, trying to find a working combination.

Eleven different players scored for the Raiders and the original starting five saw very little action together after the first five minutes of the game.

Kimberly raced off to a 8-0 lead, nailing four baskets in less than a minute. Vander Velden bagged three on quick passes when he was left unguarded under the bucket and Hietpas added another on a easy layup.

The Papermakers boosted the margin to 13-3 and then hiked the advantage to 19-10 before Lee Spiering and Bob Flemal connected to make it 19-14 at the end of the quarter.

KAUKAUNA — It took Neenah's winning Rockets about 10 minutes to figure out Kaukauna High School's gym before they were able to beat their hosts 57-41 Friday.

It was the sixth straight win in conference play for unbeaten Neenah and enabled the Rockets to take over the undisputed lead since Two Rivers lost to Kimberly.

Neenah, playing without the services of center Dave Burton who was home with the flu, allowed Dave Neubauer the whole court. The tricky guard headed scoring for both teams, copping 21 markers on 10 field goals and a free toss.

Doug Ankerson, Neubauer's courtmate, hit for 11 points, while Dick Rogness added eight.

The losers were headed by John Robedeau's 10 points. Rick Promer managed seven points before bowing out for a fifth foul in the fourth frame.

Ghosts Bad

Kaukauna promised their guests somewhat of a show in the first few minutes as they jumped off to a 6-0 lead on baskets by Robedeaux, Steve Hilgenberg and Promer.

A full four minutes elapsed before the Rockets were able to get the ball of the launching pad with Rogness under the basket.

By the end of the first quarter, Neenah had knotted the score at 9-9 and Neubauer's long jump shot from the side at the opening of the second period put the Rockets in the lead to stay.

Neubauer's four baskets in the second period paced the winners to a 27-19 going into halftime and each banged home eight counters. Ankerson's first third period side shot gave Neenah a 29-19.

In the closing two segments, the losers twice closed the gap to 11 baskets and Ewalt Wollerman points, but each time the Indians clipped in a free throw toss to were equal to the occasion as the Neenah Rockets a 34-19 they stormed back to increase the gap, midway in the quarter. # Tigers' Top Rookies Despite Loss of Koplitz

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite the temporary loss of Howard Koplitz, the sensational young right-hander, to the Army for six months, the Detroit Tigers will have an excellent array of rookie pitchers in their spring training camp next month.

Among the more promising freshman hurlers are Fred Gladding, Alan Koch, Gordon Seyfried, Ron Nischwitz and Johnny Seale.

Other highly regarded newcomers are Don Wert, a third baseman who paced the American Association in batting, and Bill Freehan, an expensive bonus collegian, who is considered a cinch bound and Kroos fired in a long one to give South a 23-17 lead.

The Tigers kept eating away with Gary Hietpas finally moving Appleton to within a point, at 28-27, by snagging two free throws. South moved away at the half-time buzzer, to a 33-30 margin.

The third period was much the same story until the Terrors grabbed the lead on Babb's goal, with 3:49 to play in the quarter. Two free throws by Runkus and a fielder by Cinealis, all in the final 16 seconds, gave South a 48-45 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Deadlocks Score

Appleton deadlocked the score, at 50 all, with 6:46 to go but reserve John Weimann put the Redmen ahead, with 4:17 to play, at 54-53.

Lee paced the Appleton scoring, with 14 markers, although he sat out much of the contest with foul trouble. The 5-9 senior picked up two quick fouls in the third period, his third and fourth.

Dennis Babb was the next highest Terror point-producer. He had 11, all of them coming in the second half.

The Terrors had a streak of 12 successive free throws in the first half. Lee finally broke the string with 1:28 remaining in the first half. Appleton finished with 20 of 26 from the line. South had 17 of 24.

Appleton shot at a 36.6 per cent clip, making 22 field goals on 60 attempts. South had 25 fielders on 73 shots for a percentage mark of 34.2.

makers hit seven straight points to make it 28-18. From there on in Kimberly was never headed and the margin climbed to 42-27 at halftime.

With regulars playing almost all the way, Kimberly hit over 50 per cent of floor shots in the first three periods. The mark fell off in the final stanza when substitutes saw action. The clincher came in the third period when Kimberly bagged 22 points and Two Rivers was held to eight.

Vander Velden was the big gun of the Kimberly attack in the first period when he counted 11. Seyfried and Joe Grzenda also of his 21 points. Polman sparked toiled at Denver last season, the second quarter scoring with Nischwitz, a left-hander, was 11-10. Seyfried 14-8 and Grzenda, 3-6.

Koch and Seale are Birmingham grads. Koch, a right-hander, was 11-10 and Seale, a 23-year-old left-hander, was 12-10. Billy Graham, a bonus right-hander from the University of Florida, also is in the service.

The Tigers think Wert is ready for the big leagues, although he faces a difficult task trying to oust Steve Boros at third base.

"We feel that Wert has a real good chance to make the club," said Rick Ferrell, the Tigers' general manager. "We want to find out whether he can play short-stop. He is a good fielder. His arm is exceptional."

There seems to be little question regarding his hitting ability. With Denver last season, he batted .328 and drove in 75 runs in 137 games. His hit total included 25 doubles, 8 triples and 12 home runs.

Freehan, who was given a reported $100,000 bonus after his graduation from the University of Michigan, did so well in his brief whirl in the minors that he was brought up to the parent club in the waning days of the 1961 season. He showed unusual poise for a 20-year-old, handled himself well behind the plate and batted .400 in his few appearances at bat.

He hit .343 at Duluth and .289 at Knoxville to earn his promotion. Jackie Moore, a young catcher, who batted .238 at Knoxville and Mickey Stanley, Bennie Sandlin and Andy Kosco, all outfielders, appear to be in need of more experience in the minors. Stanley and Sandlin are first year bonus boys. Stanley batted .279 at Decatur with seven homers and Sandlin hit .270 at Montgomery with 18 homers and 62 runs batted in. Kosco divided the 1961 season between Birmingham and Knoxville, hitting a combined .254.

5. More vigorous opposition to premature signing of collegiate football players by professional teams.
6. Establishment of a certification program for college all-star football games.

Also on tap, but expected to be defeated, is a proposal by Notre Dame to revise the NCAA Rules Committee structure to give the committee authority to rule in disputed contests where interpretation of rules by game officials is questioned.

This proposal stemmed from Notre Dame's controversial 17-15 football victory over Syracuse last fall on a last-play field goal.

The Irish made good on a second field goal try to beat Syracuse after time had expired.

However the Big Ten and Eastern College Athletic Conference commissioners, who provided the game officials, and Gen. Robert Neyland, chairman of the NCAA Rules Committee, ruled the re-play was in error.

The NCAA vs. AAU hassle still is in a tug-of-war stage and, regardless of today's action on the proposals for separate national sports federations, the battle still may be settled without White House or international arbitration as has been suggested by both sides.

At this week's NCAA convention, the collegiate track and gymnastics coaches groups called upon the NCAA to initiate national federations in their sports.

Formation of a National Basketball Federation already has been launched.

A man in the middle, K. L. (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee and a former top NCAA official, hinted Friday a compromise still may be worked out.

"I honestly think this can be worked out within our family," said Wilson.

NCAA leaders indicate the door still is open for a settlement of differences which mainly involve collegiate demands for equal voice with the AAU in control of international competition by American amateur athletes.

They point to a Feb. 4 meeting called in Kansas City by Louis Wilke of Bartlesville, Okla., vice president of the Federation of International Basketball Associations, to discuss the situation concerning the proposed basketball federation. If the peace pipe can be smoked then it failed to be in four previous attempts to meet—the dispute may be resolved down the line.

However Chick Werner, president of the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association, continued to wave a fist at the AAU.

Werner declared Friday that if the AAU refused to join the proposed new track federation, the federation might hold a meet in opposition to the National AAU competition to select athletes for the U.S.-Russia dual meet this July at Stanford University.

Whitewater, LaCrosse Win Fourth Straight

Joe Steffen Scores 27 for Warhawks In 85-76 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
La Crosse and Whitewater rolled to their fourth straight victories Friday night to remain deadlocked for first place in the Wisconsin State College Conference basketball race.
La Crosse found the shooting range in the second half and swept past Platteville 62-45, while Whitewater remained unbeaten in league action by defeating Eau Claire 85-76.
Stevens Point, the defending SCC champion, remained just off the pace by overpowering Stout 102-83 for its third victory in four starts, while Gene Evens sparked Superior to a 94-85 triumph over Oshkosh.

La Crosse connected on only five of 31 field goal attempts in being held to a 19-19 standoff in the first half by Platteville. But La Crosse hit on half of its 34 floor shots to pull away after the intermission.
Whitewater's J.P. Fisher scored 32 points and Joe Steffen added 27 as the Warhawks defeated Eau Claire, now 2-2 against league opponents. Bob Blizzard scored 28 points and teammate 23 for Eau Claire.

Meets La Crosse
Stevens Point, which meets La Crosse in a showdown tonight, lost a seven-point halftime lead, but rallied in handing Stout its third straight loss. Bucky Wickman paced the Pointers with 25 points, while Barney McCall was high for Stout with 19.
In a Midwest Conference game, Beloit spotted St. Olaf a 13-2 lead and then fought back for a 57-53 victory. St. Olaf managed to hit on only four of 28 field goal attempts in the second half. Beloit, 3-4 in the conference, was led by Dave Henricks with 17 points. St. Olaf, now 4-3, was paced by Karl Groth with 15 points.

Baltimore to Move Corner Sections of Fence Closer to Plate

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are going to pull in the fences again for the baseball hitters in Memorial Stadium.
Corners of the 7-foot high wire fence are to be moved in about 10 feet. They have been 382 feet from home plate since 1958.
The distances will remain 410 feet to dead center and 309 down the foul lines.
When the stadium was built in 1953, it was 420 feet to dead center and 405 to the corners. The new corner distance will be 35 feet closer to home plate.

a 51-48 win over Omro. Freedom had to finish with a second half flurry to nip winless Wrightstown, 45-41. The Hilbert game at Hortonville was postponed until February 6.

In one of the most amazing comeback stories of the year, host Denmark faced the seemingly impossible task of overcoming a 49-28 Reedsville halftime lead. A full-court Denmark press opened the game and the Vikings narrowed the deficit to 56-49 by the three quarter mark.

Last 24 Seconds
It wasn't until Dave Larsen tapped in a rebound in the last 24 seconds that Denmark went ahead, 65-64. Dan Wochos stole the ball and scored in the final eight seconds.

Darrell Lemmens was high with 20 and Larsen had 18. Eugene Klann's 18 point performance was high for Reedsville.

After a close, 16-13 opening period, Winneconne quickly pulled away to a 42-27 halftime lead over Shiocton and continued to increase the margin in the third period despite the presence of reserves.

Eleven players scored for the Wolves, who will play host to New London tonight. Nick Erdmann was high with 16, Martin Day had 14, and Jack Jensen collected 13. Dave Reinke's 19 points provided the most punch for Shiocton. Russ Conradt had 18.

The Bear Creek-Omro game was another tight one. The Bruins' 2-point halftime lead didn't hold and the second half saw each team take a turn with the lead. Finally, Bear Creek opened up a 6-point lead in the waning moments on three quick baskets by Mike Prunty and held on bitterly.

Mike McClone, the Bruins' center, took game honors Friday with 19 points. Doug Kintopf's 15 point effort was tops for Omro. Wrightstown came as close as they have come all year to winning a basketball game but it wasn't enough. The Tigers had a 16-13 halftime lead before the Freedom pressing defense brought the Irish back in front. Freedom stretched its lead to five points early in the fourth period and maintained this spread right up to the end.

The Tiger's Paul Krueger took scoring honors with 19 points. Jim Brockman's 14 points was high for the winners, and LeRoy Fieck tossed in 13 markers before fouling out of the game.

The theft of $600 in cash from Mrs. Pomeroy's home led to the charge against her. She told police $1,700 was taken, but when $600 was recovered she said only $600 was taken. The money was stolen by Mrs. Pomeroy's sister, who has been placed on two year's probation.

Refused Ownership
Mrs. Pomeroy later said the money belonged to her brother, but he refused to sign a statement of ownership.

Worker Got Unemployment Pay Illegally

A 27-year-old Appleton man Thursday was found guilty of re-ceiving $120 in unemployment checks under false pretenses. He was sentenced to 20 days in Outagamie County jail by Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Henry L. Cramer, 27, 1214 E. Randall Ave., Appleton, will serve in jail under the Huber law after he changed his plea to no contest of receiving three $40 unemploy-ment checks while he was em- ployed.

The offense took place in March of 1961 and Cramer pleaded in- nocent on June 20, 1961. He changed his plea Monday. Cramer has repaid $100 of the amount.

'Scandal, Disgrace'
Judge Keller termed the viola- tions of public assistance and un- employment laws "a scandal, a disgrace."

The repayment may be a mili- tating factor as to a penalty to be imposed. It does not, however, wipe from the state's your viola- tion of the law.

Legislators Curb Rothwell's Power

Deny Superintendent's Right To Veto District Organization

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The legislature has struck a blow at the authority and prestige of the state superin- tendent of public instruction dur- ing his political honeymoon pe- riod by approving a bill to deny him the right to veto the organiza- tion of a local union high school district.

With Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles breaking a tie vote on the hotly contested issue, the state senate concurred, 16 to 15, in a bill previously backed by the state assembly.

It would delete from the law the provision that allows the in- corporation of such independent local districts in rural areas upon certain conditions, including the approving signature of Angus Rothwell, the state superintendent.

Potter Bank's Assets Grow $116,000 in '61

The rule for a minimum $9 mil- lion tax valuation in such a pro- posed district, and a minimum prospective enrollment of 250 pu- pils, would remain unchanged.

Gov. Nelson must approve the measure before it becomes law.

Establish High School
The legislation arises out of a protracted quarrel in rural and suburban Ozaukee County, where there is a movement to establish a new union high school that would absorb pupils now sent to the school at Port Washington on a tuition paying basis.

But the issue has aroused con- siderable interest in other local- ities that are becoming aware of the compulsory law for the at- tachment of all unorganized terri- tory to an operating high school district before next July 1.

The State Department of Public Instruction fought the bill as an impediment to the "integrated" school district arrangement that it has backed and that has made considerable progress in recent years. The integrated districts of-

Educators at OSC Meeting

Need for In-Service Education and Research Discussed

WAUPACA — George Barber, county school superintendent, and Clarence Riddle, Waupaca High School principal, attended an in- service education and coordina- tion meeting Thursday at Wisco- sin State College, Oshkosh.

Discussion topics included con- cern of the State Department of Public Instruction and the curric- ulum guiding committee for qual- ity of in-service education in the state, the work of the sub-com- mittee on in-service education, and selection of the Oshkosh area for a pilot conference April 22.

Discussion groups emphasized the needs for coordination be- tween pre-service and in-service teacher education, increased quantity and quality of research, better coordination in research among large school systems, small school systems and colleges in the area, and cooperation and coordination among school sys- tems and colleges for improved in-service education programs throughout the entire area.

School Schedules Interrupted by Snow Drifting

CHILTON — Heavy snow drift- ing in the rural areas of Calumet County Thursday interrupted school schedules for the second time this week.

Chilton and Hilbert high schools dismissed their pupils 1 p.m., and Stockbridge closed at 10 a.m.

Butte des Morts Request Not Clear; Effect on Possible Annexation Questioned

Appleton's street and sanitation committee Thursday read a vague request from the Buttes des Morts Sanitary District and felt it meant that the district wants to hook onto the city's sanitary system.

Committee members immediately wondered what effect this would have on any future attempt to annex the area included by the district. The committee's conversation was short and general. But com- mitteemen moved to have Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski study the area and call in officers of the district to clarify and discuss their request.

Prompt Action Needed
William H. Zuehlke Jr., secre- tary of the Butte des Morts dis- trict, asked the committee "what measure of cooperation" the dis- trict may expect from the city to "alleviate the existing condition of Mud Creek." His letter em- phasized the need for prompt ac- tion to alleviate "the existing con- dition."

Build Plant
Duszynski pointed out that, if the district does not hook onto Appleton's system, it would have to build a sewage treatment plant near the mouth of Mud Creek mentioned by the State at the Fox River.

Cost of the treatment plant has been estimated at $350,000. The Town of Menasha received permission from the federal gov- ernment to issue contracts for construction of a sewage treat- ment system. The bids will be issued next week. The town first received approval of the $500,000 plant and interceptor system in September.

Entire Area
Duszynski felt the city cannot consider only the Mud River por- tion of the district, but must study the entire natural drainage area.

He wondered about adding the hooking the district onto Apple- ton's sanitary system on annexa- tion? "How fast do you want to grow?" one committee member asked as soon as the request was brought up.

He pointed out that there is a "tremendous potential for indus- try" in the area with the high- way and rail facilities there. "I tried officers."

CHILTON — The trial of Ed- ward Joas, 52, route 3, Chilton, Arps, against whom Joas filed an affidavit of prejudice when a jury convicted Joas of a double fishing violation several years ago.

Also at stake for Joas is his appeal of a Justice Court verdict, which found him guilty of point- ing a loaded firearm at another person. The charge resulted from the same incident and brought a $100 fine and a 30-day jail sentence, pending the outcome of the appeal.

Judge Henry Gergen Jr., recessed the trial until the annual stockholders meeting of the First National Bank at the Waupaca County Club.

Indians Win, 60-52, Retain CW Lead

Iola-Scandinavia Stays Games Behind With 53-51 Triumph

CENTRAL WIS. CONFERENCE

W	L
Weyauwega 7	1 Bonduel
Iola-Scand. 6	2 Marion
Amherst 4	4 Waupaca
Manawa 4	4 Wittenberg

Friday Night's Results:
Amherst 46, Waupaca 43.
Manawa 46, Marion 47.
Weyauwega 46, Wittenberg 52.
I-5 53, Bonduel 51.

Led by Dick Barker and Jack Paschke, the Weyauwega Indians hung on to the top rung in the Central Wisconsin Conference Friday night by posting a 60-52 victory over upset-minded Wittenberg.

The losers gave Weyauwega a battle for three periods as they trailed by only five points at the intermission and then closed the gap to 41-39 at the three-quarter mark. In the closing segment, the winners spurred for 19 points while Wittenberg could muster only 13.

Barker with 25 points and Paschke, with 17, paced the 'Wega attack. Duane Bohlman led the losers with 13.

Iola - Scandinavia remained one game behind the league leaders with a 53-51 win over Bonduel. John Gertson and Dennis Biederman led the win with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Gary Hovey, of Bonduel, was the high scorer with 22.

The Manawa Wolves evened their record at 4-4 and moved back into the conference's first division with a 60-47 conquest of Marion.

Increase Margin

The losers grabbed an early 13-12 first-quarter lead and had increased the advantage to seven points with three minutes remaining in the second stanza. Manawa then went into a full court press and managed to square things at 27-all by the intermission.

An 8-point spurt opening the third period gave the Wolves a lead which they never relinquished. Substitutes played the final few minutes as Manawa coasted to its fourth league triumph.

Bill Rohde, Jim Buschke and Leroy Jossie paced Manawa's balanced scoring attack. Rohde took game scoring honors with 19 points. Dave Brandenburg's 12 markers were high for Marion.

In a ragged but closely played game at Waupaca, the Comets and Amherst stayed on even terms until well into the final period before Amherst finally won out, 46-43.

With two minutes showing on the scoreboard clock, the issue was still in doubt with the score standing at 43-41. Amherst hit a basket and free throw to take the lead at 46-43 and then played possession ball the rest of the way to preserve the victory margin.

Lionie Krogwald again was the big gun for Amherst, getting 21 points on nine baskets and three charity tosses. Dave Hansen and Dennis Hanson led Waupaca with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Municipal Justice Post Okayed by Marion Council

MARION — A proposal for creating the office of municipal justice since the state of Wisconsin week at the regular monthly meeting of the common council. The establishment of the office has become official and replaces the present position of justice of the peace according to Wisconsin statutes which created and provided for the new position.

The council named Art Bohr, present justice of the peace, until a municipal justice is elected in April.

Police Chief Jack Below reported to the council that a problem regarding prisoners from Marion which are held in the Clintonville jail had arisen. The Marion prisoners have been held at Clintonville since the jail here was committed by the state of Wisconsin the past year. It was discovered that city of Clintonville insurance covering liability regarding prisoners would not apply to prisoners from Marion.

Mayor Cecil Welch directed Below to consult with Clintonville authorities and to work out arrangements acceptable to both municipalities.

The council also considered plans for installing a new glass front in the Marion city library. A final decision is expected at the February meeting when complete plans will be presented for replacing the present wood front.

Menasha Bank Reveals Plans For Expansion

1st Major Project In 23 Years for Downtown Area

MENASHA — Downtown Menasha's largest new building project since replacement of the Tuchscherer Building 23 years ago was unveiled Thursday for stockholders of Bank of Menasha at their annual meeting.

When completed, Bank of Menasha will offer drive-in banking, larger customer service area and redesigned interior and exterior.

To make room for the building expansion to the north, the bank Nov. 19, 1960 purchased the old Leopold Building, constructed in 1887. The ancient structure will be razed immediately before construction begins this spring.

Raze Building

The Leopold building site, 40 feet on the Main Street Square and 80 feet on Chute Street, will be entirely used in the building program, says Bank Pres. Harry Kosloske.

McMahon Engineering Co., the bank's architect, is working with a Chicago bank design consultant in preparing the final plan.

Bank of Menasha's drive-in window will be the first such facility in the city. Auto-banking customers will drive into an alley to be made at the west end of the building off Main Street and exit into Chute Street. To accommodate the alley to the drive-in window, part of the bank building will be removed. The window itself will be separate from the bank building.

While the building plan is not definite, Kosloske said the project also should include a relocated main entrance, second floor directors' room and a walk-up banking window, the last an innovation in Menasha.

Kosloske said the bank had undertaken the expansion "because of the future growth of Menasha. We feel this will be an asset to the downtown section and will show our faith in the Menasha business section." Douglas Gunderson, a bank director, said the bank needs "more convenient, quicker and better facilities."

Chilton Fails to Hold Off Panthers

First Win of Season Slips Away When Plymouth Hits 14 Straight

CHILTON — The scrappy Chilton Tigers fought diligently for that elusive first win of the season Friday night at Plymouth only to see it slip away in the final minutes. The final score was 51-44, Plymouth.

Chilton led for three periods by as much as nine points. Then, with about 4:30 left in the contest and holding a slim 38-37 lead, the Tiger guns were silenced and the Panthers rammed through 14 straight points. The Tigers fought back but it was too late.

Steve Thurwachter, who played a standout game, scored six of Chilton's 12 first period points when the Tigers forged into a four-point lead.

The second quarter was evenly matched with the Tigers again holding a slight scoring advantage, 12-11, to lead 24-19 at the half. It was during the second quarter that Chilton held its biggest lead of the game, 18-9, but the Panthers trimmed it a bit before intermission.

A dismal third quarter proved to be the Tigers' downfall. They found the range for only six points and temporarily lost the lead when the hosts fired through 14. The result was a 33-30 deficit for the invaders who up to this point had the Panther fans stunned.

The Tigers rallied in the early minutes of the final period and wrestled the lead away from the winners for a moment. It was 38-37 Chilton with about five minutes left when the roof fell in.

Led by Tom Unger, Tom Cornell and Mark Curtiss, the Panthers strung together 14 straight points moving ahead 51-38. Chilton retaliated with six straight but time ran out.

The game's top scorer was Steve Thurwachter who accounted for 22 points. Unger led Plymouth with 17.

It was the Tigers' most satisfying game of the season despite it being their tenth straight loss. Playing on hostile boards against a team 7-3 overall, the Tigers did themselves proud.

Gillette Sales Devastating to Its Competition

Company Virtually Controls Market On Razors, Blades

BY GEORGE LAZARUS
Chicago Daily News Service

BOSTON—It would be cruel to suggest that the Gillette Co. is cutting the throats of competitors in the shaving market.

But as far as the competition is concerned, the effect is the same, because Gillette has more than 70 per cent of the U.S. market on blades and 80 to 90 per cent on razors.

The newest Gillette weapon is the Super Blue blade, 1.7500 the thickness of a newspaper page but a sales heavyweight.

The Super Blue blade was introduced two years ago on New Year's Day with a typically heavy Gillette promotion campaign.

6 Billion Blades
This blade—first new Gillette entry on the blade market in more than 20 years—now represents 40 per cent of the company's blade sales and Gillette annually sells nearly 6 billion blades in 115 countries.

"Sales of the Super Blue blade surpassed even our expectations," related Vincent C. Ziegler, president of the Safety Razor Division of Gillette's varied and profitable enterprises.

Naturally, the company is bent on converting more of its Blue Blade users to the higher-priced super blades.

During 1960, Gillette sales rose to $224,700,000 and profits climbed to $37,100,000 — a dramatic four-fold increase over 1946 figures.

And how are they fixed for profits in 1961? In excess of $42,500,000, or $4.55 a share.

No Sales Breakdown
Gillette officials don't disclose a complete breakdown of sales and profits among its divisions.

But they do say that safety razors and blades account for 65 per cent of company volume, with Toni hair preparations and Paper Mate pens averaging about 25 and 10 per cent.

Gillette realizes 15 per cent net income on sales, a rare record. Adjusted to stock splits, the most recent 3-for-1 split last month, a share of Gillette could have been purchased for about $2.58 in 1946. Tuesday's market had Gillette selling around $3.

The company paid $3.30 in 1961 dividends, including an 80-cent extra in November.

Main Competitors
Even while building up its own share of the market, Gillette has been gaining an even greater edge over its two main competitors, Eversharp (Schick) and American Safety Razor (Gem) in the wet shave market.

Despite advances in the early 1950s, the electric or dry shave market also has been sliding in the face of Gillette's sales sprint. Electric shavers tripled in retail sales volume from $45,000,000 in the late 1940s to a 1956 peak of $138,000,000.

But based on recent figures from Electric Merchandising Week (a trade magazine) the market has been slipping.

About 5,950,000 shavers were sold for $100,000,000 in 1960, and this year's figures were forecast at 5,550,000 units and $78,000,000 volume.

Manager Finds Shoes On Display Slashed

OSHKOSH — Ten pairs of shoes at the PIC Shoe Outlet Store, 308 N. Main St., Shkosh, were discovered slashed Friday afternoon by the store manager. The shoes, valued at $45, were on display counters.

This is Gina Drazin, whose recorded voice warns Air Force B58 bomber pilots of malfunctions in their aircraft. Here she records into a little black box which is fitted into the giant bombers' instrument panels.

Supervisors To Review Bids For Police Cars

OSHKOSH — Representatives of Gibson Chevrolet Co. and Lee Peart Dodge will be asked to meet with the Winnebago County board's sheriff and coroner committee at 4 p.m. next Monday to go over their bids for supplying the county with police cars.

The bids of the two companies were less than $40 apart on cars and within the $2,500 limit set by the county board per car.

The board at its fall meeting authorized the county to purchase up to 10 cars for the county police patrol. Up to now each patrolman supplied his own car.

A bid on the cars from Wertsch Motor Co. was rejected for being too high and a bid from Dahl Motors was rejected for not following the specifications.

The committee reviewed the bids Friday afternoon. Committee members are investigating also the difference in cost between a disposable and a refillable oxygen tank for the squad cars. Purchase of tanks was authorized some time ago.

Armory Plan Fails for State

Assembly Defeats Guard Construction For Twin Cities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Wisconsin National Guard plan to accelerate construction of new armories in Wisconsin communities, including a possible joint armory to accommodate militia units of Appleton and Neenah, failed Friday night when the Assembly, before its adjournment, tabled an appropriation bill.

The Senate had approved at the request of the National Guard, a $200,000 appropriation to replenish state matching funds used with federal aids for the construction of training facilities.

Legislators were told that construction plans for 10 communities could be advanced by a year if the money was made available.

1963 Construction
Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah explained to the senate that the joint Appleton-Neenah project would have been scheduled for 1963 construction, with legislative approval.

Nine other communities in upper and western Wisconsin were involved in the proposed 1963 construction schedule, Draheim said he was told.

Presumably, the money request will be returned to the legislature next year.

The national government provides aids in the ratio of $4 for each $1 matched by the state.

InterLake Mill in Appleton is a part of Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co.

Built-in Warning

Woman's Low, Husky Voice Guides Huge B-58 to Safety

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lt. Col. Henry Deutsendorf and his crew were bringing their eight-jet B58 bomber down at Carswell Air Force Base in Texas.

The weather was bad, radar guided his approach. Suddenly a woman's low, husky voice whispered a warning in his ear.

He looked, and sure enough, two engines had flamed out.

Crew Hears

His crew had heard the warnings, too, in time to trim the ship properly for the landing.

The voice came from a little black box in the giant bomber's instrument panel. The eight-pound box, a miniature tape recorder, was hooked up with the panel's system of warning lights. When the engines flamed out, the box began playing a recording.

The voice belongs to Gina Drazin, a part and pretty secretary in the plant where the black box was made—Northronics Division of Northrop Corp.

Gina's voice was chosen primarily because it is low and husky.

No Training
"I've had no voice training," says Gina. "I can't carry a tune in a basket—my voice is pitched too low. But I guess that's why it was chosen—high-pitched voices fade out on aircraft intercoms."

If low pitch was needed, why wasn't a man's voice used?

That's easy. A woman's voice gets more attention in a bomber cockpit.

The voice warning, called Vips—for Voice Interruption Priority System—is being installed in all B58 bombers because pilot attention can be diverted from the panel lights by a number of emergencies. He may overlook visual signals but tests show pilot response to Gina's dulcet tones is immediate.

Appleton's Only White "Fire Truck" is checked by firemen at Station Three to insure that it is in good working order. The truck holds 1,500 gallons of water and in summer is used by the department of public works for flushing streets. The Appleton fire department borrowed it for the winter months to provide protection for the area east of the railroad crossing on Newberry Street, where there are few fire hydrants. Chief Alfred Arnold said in sub-zero weather water possibly could freeze in the hoses on the long route from the hydrant to distant homes. The truck is equipped with a pump for fire-fighting. Driver Harold Lillge, left, and Capt. Conrad Plach inspect the truck.

Flood of Hospitality for Stranded Grandmother, Girl

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—A Negro woman and her small granddaughter are enjoying this community's belated—but bountiful—hospitality after spending two days and nights aboard a stranded transcontinental bus.

The passengers, Mae Lee Johnson, 55, of Bourbon, Miss., and Gwendolyn Faye, a smiling child of almost three who wears pig-tails, were kept warm and comfortable on the bus because the white driver ignored a chance to take lodging at a hotel and kept the heating system going.

The Continental Trailways bus stopped here during a snowstorm and C. C. Barlow of Texarkana, Ark., the driver, received orders not to go on because of hazardous highways.

Remains on Bus
The white passengers went to hotels, but the only Negro hotel in town told Barlow that it had no vacancies.

"I guess you'll have to stay on the bus," he told Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn. They were en route to Los Angeles for a visit with Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Minnie Bell Williams.

Barlow folded down two seats for his passengers and they spent two nights aboard the bus. He cat-napped in a front seat. Temperatures outside fell to three degrees above zero.

The bus station cafe was closed two months ago to avoid integration. So Barlow helped Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn to a nearby Negro cafe for some meals. Other meals were eaten from a lunch they had brought.

Thursday the bus door opened and Julian Haas, manager of radio station KAGH, stepped in. He talked with Mrs. Johnson and Barlow and went back to the station.

He broadcast the story at 2 p.m. "As soon as I was off the air the phone calls started," he said.

"There were calls from Negro families who said they would put them up. A white hotel owner called and said to send them over, that there was a room regardless of their color."

"A white woman called and said they could use her son's room because he was away at school."

By the time Haas got back to the bus station, dozens of people—white and Negro—were clustered around the bus. They carried food, clothing and invitations for lodging.

Mrs. Johnson and Gwendolyn went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson, Negroes (no relation), to spend the night. Townsfolk brought enough food for a banquet.

Barlow went to stay with a Baptist minister.

"That bus driver really deserves the credit," Haas said. He didn't have to stay on that bus. There were rooms in white hotels."

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.
Q. I have two baby turtles and both have swollen eyelids. Is there any way to prevent this and is there any cure? Joyce Jackson, Garden City, N. Y.
A. Our last column on turtle eyes brought a deluge of mail giving advice. The hundreds of letters far surpassed comment on any other subject. While we can't enumerate all the suggested cures, here are a few of them. Bathing eyes with a solution of equal parts of household vinegar and water once a day. Heavily salted water, lightly salted water, paid if the total amounts to over $20. The second figure is for special assessments and must be paid in full. Therefore checks for one-half the tax and special assessment total are not acceptable.

Youth Placed On Probation

Milton Palmer, 19, Admits Burglary At New London

WAUPACA — Milton Palmer, 19, Lima Street, New London, was sentenced to 18 months in the state reformatory, Green Bay, on a charge of burglary by Judge Wendell McHenry Friday morning in County Court, Circuit Court Branch.

Judge McHenry stayed the sentence and placed Palmer on probation to the State Department of Public Welfare for three years with a warning that if Palmer violates the terms of probation, he will be taken immediately to the reformatory to serve the sentence.

Palmer's attorney, Laurie Anderson, entered a plea of guilty for Palmer to a charge of breaking into the Middlestead Grocery Store, New London, Dec. 4.

Broke Into Machine
Palmer and a companion, who, according to Edward R. Macklin, acting district attorney, is scheduled to be brought in on a similar charge, entered the building through a window.

The pair broke into the pin ball machines and juke box and took candy, gum and cigarettes before going to the Plywood factory to divide the cash and loot.

Reviews Record
After reviewing Palmer's record, which included several appearances in juvenile court, Judge McHenry told Palmer: "It looks like you would like to spend the rest of your life in an institution."

Judge McHenry told Palmer he had had a number of opportunities to become a responsible member of society, but that he failed to take advantage of his opportunities.

Palmer was ordered to pay all of the costs in the damage of the equipment at the store and make restitution for items taken.

Phone Call
Clement was arrested Wednesday night after police received a phone call from a service station operator saying that a possible drunk driver was traveling North on U.S. 45. When police attempted to stop Clement at the intersection of N. Water St. and N. Pearl Street, Clement collided with a car driven by Daniel J. Davis, 22, Cradon, who had stopped when he saw the red light flashing on the squad car. Minor damage was caused to the two cars.

Clement tested .15 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Special Assessment Payments Can't be Made in Installments

KAUKAUNA—Miss Ruth Wolf, city treasurer, reports she has been receiving many checks by mail from citizens paying special assessments on the 50-50 basis, which is not acceptable under state statutes.

All special assessments must be paid in full to avoid interest charges, stated the treasurer. Persons mailing checks for one-half of the total assessment will be classed as delinquent on payment and the interest charges will be assessed, said Miss Wolf.

Included with each tax bill was an explanation of how taxes and special assessments are to be paid and a brief study should answer any questions taxpayers might have. Miss Wolf explained.

Top figures on tax bills are the taxes of which one-half can be paid if the total amounts to over $20. The second figure is for special assessments and must be paid in full. Therefore checks for one-half the tax and special assessment total are not acceptable.

Most Art Work in Africa Of No Consequence Today

New Attitude Toward Gods Affected Traditional Drive

BY SMITH HEMPSTONE
Chicago Daily News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya - Although African art today enjoys a considerable vogue, most of the work being done now on the continent is inconsequential and derivative.

The genuine African art of the past was a religious art, like that of Russia. It could flourish in all its cruel and mysterious glory only so long as the pantheon of African gods remained inviolate.

The introduction of Western life and administration to Africa was a blow to the solar plexus of Black society.

the advent of the White man there was no literature.

Cave Paintings

With the exception of the cave paintings of the Bushmen, there was virtually no painting. Architecture was of little consequence.

African music, leaning heavily on percussion (drums) and wind instruments, while interesting, is repetitive to the Western ear.

There was considerable African decorative art. Beads, cowrie shells, feathers and fur, were used to decorate clothes and tools.

Pleasing patterns were burned or scratched into gourds.

Even these minor arts, however, were dealt a death blow by the impact of colonialism. When a woman could buy a cheap, unbreakable enamel basin, she no longer decorated with painted flowers.

The gods have become tired, less cruel, less demonic. And it spends long hours scratching designs into an all-too-perishable material.

It should not be assumed, however, that Africa was one great studio of demonic and decorative sculpture. Since, with the art before the advent of the White man, there has been no written languages before. Vast areas of the continent have never produced anything but the crudest work of any kind.

Separate Case

With the exception of Ethiopia, which with its Christian-Semitic heritage is rather a separate case, 90 per cent of African art has sprung from the West African states from the Congo north to the Ivory Coast.

From this area came the magnificent fetish masks, stools, ceremonial bronze heads, and ekoume wood idols with which we associate a that is truly great in African art.

With the political renaissance of Africa has come a renewed interest in African art, a desire to recapture its past glories and to find new forms of expression for its new hopes.

To a large extent this is a movement in which there is still considerable White influence, although Africans are taking an increasing interest in their own cultural past and future.

Sculpture, the art form in which Africans excelled most in the past, in general has managed only to emulate rather than to recapture or improve upon the old glories.

Nigerian Sculptors

Good work is being done by two Nigerian sculptors, Ben Enwonwu and Felix Idubor, but they, unfortunately, are the exception rather than the rule.

The great majority of the wood carving and bronze casting taking place today on both coasts of Africa is clumsy, imitative and mass-produced.

The painting is little better. Most African universities now have art schools and it is a poor capital indeed that does not boast at least one professional painter.

Most of their work, however, comes out looking second-rate. A young Frenchman named Pierre Lods runs an art school in Brazzaville whose students have come about as close as possible to creating an indigenous school of painting.

Lods has prevented his students from becoming derivative by not exposing them to European art. But he has not been able to keep them from developing a symbiotic relationship to each other.

Highly Stylized

As a result, after 10 years existence, most of the work of Lods' students comes out highly stylized, similar in appearance, and a little flat. Some of it, however, is very good.

Neither music nor architecture has flowered yet. Africa is just beginning to produce trained architects and schooled musi-

Canker Sores Can Result From Rundown Condition

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. isn't of very much use. Anyway, "Dear Dr. Molner: A month some of the stronger medications never goes by that I don't have wouldn't be advisable in the

The terms imply that infection is the cause — and very often this is true. Canker sores are frequently seen in people whose resistance is below par, following some severe generalized infection.

In such cases obviously the restoration of general health is of prime importance, not only to get rid of the cankers but to prevent their recurrence.

By the same token, trying to treat the canker sores themselves in 10 years it may be possible to evaluate their work.

It is in literature, the art form which did not exist in Africa a century ago (except in its oral form: story telling) that the most encouraging signs are seen.

President Leopold Senghor of Senegal composes poetry of exquisite grace as do Davidson Nicol, principal of Sierre Leone's Fourah Bay College, and Dennis Osadebay, the Nigerian lawyer.

Novelists include South Africa's brilliant Peter Abrahams, and Amos Tutuola, Chinua Achebe, and Cyprian Edwensi, all Nigerians.

Signal Contribution

It should be noted in passing, although their work has no reference to Africa as a continent if only because the political fate of the White men is circumscribed, that White Africans like Laurens Van Der Post, Nadine Gordimer and Alan Paton (all South Africans, incidentally) have made signal contributions to the field of contemporary world literature.

Fine as is the African-written poetry and prose, it still leaves something to be desired. Perhaps it is because these men are writing in languages and art forms strange to them.

Perhaps it is because there is no African reading public and their works of necessity must be geared for White consumption.

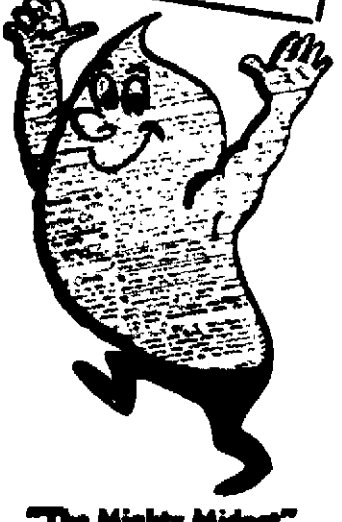

But the fact remains that two cheers is the most that in conscience can be managed for African literature. For the rest of the arts, one cheer is about it.

African art is important primarily in its general political and social context. The African desperately wants to be accepted as the equal of the rest of the world.

For this reason, if for no other, there is a compelling psychological necessity for the emergence of a real and worthwhile African art.

This has yet to come. Until it does, African leaders will continue to boast about the cultural achievements of their countries, insecure in the knowledge that such does not exist.

Finally, jagged teeth may need smoothing up. And if any gum infection is present, it should be treated.

Shingles Annoying

"Dear Dr. Molner: Two weeks after having my second flu shot, I broke out with shingles. I have never had either flu shots or shingles before. Is this coincidence or had I better lay off the flu shots? Taint funny. — E. H. K."

Of course it isn't funny. Shingles is a most annoying form of misery. But I'm not familiar with any likelihood of flu shots being followed by shingles, so I strongly think this is simply an unfortunate coincidence. Occasional lacy feeling and possibly a little fever sometimes follow a day or two after flu shots, but it's mild and brief.
